Let weekend-long party begin

The Juno Block Party, which featured Hannah Georgas, Shad and City and Colour, was co-sponsored by Metro. Festivities surrounding the 40th Juno Awards take over the city this weekend, culminating with Sunday night's show.

Liberals try to beef up motion

- Oda may be included on non-confidence initiative
- No government or minister in Commonwealth has ever before been formally cited for contempt

The Liberals are trying to ensure the Harper government doesn't dodge two contempt of Parliament bullets before heading into a federal election campaign.

A Liberal confidence motion is expected to topple the minority Conservatives early Friday afternoon.

It asserts that the government is in contempt for refusing to fully disclose the cost of its tough-on-crime agenda, corporate tax cuts, and plans to purchase stealth fighter jets.

Liberals were musing Thursday about amending the motion to add a reference to International Co-operation Minister Bev Oda being in contempt for misleading Parliament over the alteration of a government document.

Thoughts of an amendment were prompted by continued wrangling at an

"I know that's the game plan, to make sure that the government falls before a conclusion is ever drawn in the House."

LIBERAL MP JOHN MCKAY

opposition-dominated Commons committee, which is supposed to report Friday on whether Oda should be found in contempt.

Opposition MPs accused Tory committee members of deliberately talking out the clock to avoid a formal contempt finding against the minister.

The committee is to meet again Friday morning but opposition MPs predicted the Tory members will once again filibuster proceedings. THE CANADIAN PRESS

TCHC ate like kings at Christmas

They're the Christmas parties that Toronto Community Housing officials didn't really want to discuss.

The 2008 party for TCHC staff featured a chocolate fountain, an Italian spumante and strawberries station, crème brûlée and a deluxe antipasto bar that included hot grilled calamari, mussels and smoked salmon.

In attendance were 760 guests, and the final bill from the Montecassino banquet hall in North York came to $47,715. Throw in costs for entertainment and other items, and TCHC forked out $53,500.

It was a significant change from the year prior. The 2007 celebration was a smaller scale event — 420 TCHC guests attended — and featured a less elaborate menu. The bill from Montecassino was $22,368.

The grand total for the 2009 party was $40,000, and another was held in 2010 for an undisclosed sum. Neither were at Montecassino.

The parties topped the list of expenses at the housing agency, including spas, boat cruises, and trips to resorts, that were slammed in a recent report by Toronto auditor general Jeffrey Griffiths as "outrageous" and a completely inappropriate use of taxpayers' funds. Griffiths also criticized the agency's tendering practices. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

► 'Provocative' campaign on public transit aims to get people talking about colorectal cancer

Don't be alarmed if you (suddenly) get some "cheek" from the TTC.

A new campaign launched yesterday by the Colorectal Cancer Association of Canada has the rumps of 151 TTC buses plastered with butts to raise awareness for colorectal cancer.

"The purpose is to be a little bit provocative and to get people to talk about this disease," said CCAC president and cancer survivor Barry Stein.

Stein began the organization in 1998, after he was diagnosed with colorectal cancer, with the objective to spread awareness, education and support for patients and families.

The current campaign, Get Your Butt Seen, has

"Talking about the disease is the first step in order to get people to get screened from it."

BARRY STEIN, PRESIDENT, COLORECTAL CANCER ASSOCIATION OF CANADA

been viral since last year at getyourbuttseen.ca and has gone worldwide.

"It's an important public service," said Brad Ross, TTC spokesperson.

"We're happy to support it and the use of our vehicles to help deliver that message."

In Canada, more than 20,000 people will be diagnosed with colorectal cancer this year and there will be about 9,100 who die from it, said Stein.

● KYLA SERGEJEV

► 150 TTC buses can be seen sporting butts for colorectal cancer awareness. This special bus has been equipped inside and out with extra signage, making it No. 151 in Toronto.

Juno Cup weds NHL greats with musicians

- ▶ Award show kick-off raises money for MusiCounts, a program that benefits high school music programs
- ▶ Tickets to the event, taking place at the Ricoh Coliseum, are still available ▶ Mark Napier and others to attend

TORONTO@METRONEWS.CA

Hockey and music — what more could a Canadian ask for — that's exactly what fans of both will get when the puck is dropped for the eighth annual Juno Cup Friday night at the Ricoh Coliseum.

The Juno Cup is a warmup to the awards show and brings NHL greats and Canadian performers together to raise money and awareness for MusiCounts.

"It's awesome. In my high school we benefited from having musical instruments and that's what MusiCounts does," said Jon Gallant, bass guitarist for Billy Talent.

"It gives $10,000 grants to beef up their music program."

Gallant said music is a great outlet for youth.

"It's expensive to get involved in music," Gallant said. "I think it's important to be able to offer that (funding) to kids. It keeps them creative. It keeps them out of trouble."

Ten-year NHL veteran Brad Dalgarno said he is selfishly taking part in this weekend's game because he is a fan of so many Canadian artists.

"I'm a bit shameless," Dalgarno said. "I get the best of both worlds — music and hockey."

The former New York Islander said the game is a great idea.

"It's such a great cause on so many levels," Dalgarno said.

Hospital, alleged sex assault victims reach deal

A Toronto hospital has reached a settlement with 26 female patients who allege they were sexually assaulted by an anesthetist in the operating room.

The lawyer for the women confirmed Thursday they had reached a deal with North York General Hospital March 8, but Darcy Merkur would not divulge financial details citing confidentiality.

He described the agreement as "fair, efficient, sensitive and respectful" to his clients and the patients at the hospital.

"Our clients are satisfied with the result," he said.

Dr. George Doodnaught, who had worked at the hospital for 28 years, faces sexual assault charges involving 29 women. The alleged assaults took place between June 1992 and February 2010 either at the hospital or at a clinic.

He has not been tried or convicted and has been released on bail. A preliminary hearing is set for late October.

Doodnaught's lawyer Brian Greenspan called the settlement "a rush to judgment" and said the doctor, who was not involved in the negotiations of the deal, plans to vigorously defend himself against the charges.

"They're free to do what they want but from our perspective it's quite reprehensible not to have even sought out the position that Dr. Doodnaught has," said Greenspan. "Dr. Doodnaught is not only presumed to be not guilty, to be presumed innocent, but he asserts clearly and has from the outset asserted his innocence of any wrongdoing."

In a statement Thursday, interim hospital president and CEO Tim Rutledge said the facility respects the fact that the criminal investigation is still ongoing.

In January, a judge ruled Doodnaught, 62, who has been an anesthetist since 1981, would be allowed to perform medical procedures in clinics but only on male patients.

The College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario said Thursday that Doodnaught is not currently working at a hospital or clinic. Spokeswoman Kathryn Clarke said the college is investigating Doodnaught. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Axe-wielding Whitby woman Tasered by police

A 24-year-old Whitby woman's axe turned out to be no match for a police Taser.

Durham regional police say the woman was apprehended Wednesday after either breaking into or attempting to break into several homes in the Garden Street and Dryden Boulevard neighbourhood.

Officers responding to several calls about an axe-wielding woman confronted the woman in a neighbour's home.

When the woman disregarded repeated pleas to drop the axe, an officer Tasered her.

The woman is in hospital for physical and mental assessments and police say no charges have been laid. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Shots fired near school, cops looking for student

Toronto police are looking for a 16-year-old boy after a shooting outside an east-end school Thursday afternoon.

Winston Churchill Collegiate Institute was placed in lockdown mode for a few hours while police searched the grounds for a weapon and the suspect. Neither was located.

Police say the teen, who is a student at the school, was involved in an altercation with someone in a vehicle parked outside.

It's alleged he pulled out a gun and fired at least one shot at the vehicle before fleeing the scene.

No one was injured and police are appealing to the teen to turn himself in. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Guidelines to limit fees for schools

► The Education Act prohibits fees for courses needed to graduate

Ontario's public schools will receive new guidelines Friday that outline what extra fees they are allowed to charge students, but the opposition says the government isn't enforcing the existing rules.

The new guidelines come after advocacy group People for Education released a report Thursday saying fees charged for courses, student activities and athlet-

Fifty-three per cent of Ontario high schools charge fees for art classes, 41 per cent charge fees for physical education and 26 per cent impose

Trial hears Manners was friends with accused killers

A Toronto murder trial heard Thursday that 15-year-old Jordan Manners was friends with the two men accused of killing him in a school stairwell in May 2007.

Two men, who can only be identified as C.D. and J.W. because they were youths at the time, are charged with first-degree murder.

Manners was found lying in a stairwell at C.W. Jefferys Collegiate Institute on May 23, 2007, with a .25-calibre bullet through his chest.

Hall monitor and basketball coach Richard

Testimony

► Coach Richard Malcolm testified that C.D. was also a basketball player and a popular student, but had left the school in February to work to raise money for his expected child.

Malcolm told the court the three were friends and there was "no animosity between them."

Malcolm testified that Manners and J.W. would walk to and from school together, with Manners often sticking around after school to watch J.W.'s basketball practices.

Don't touch corporate tax cuts: Companies

► Faced with troubling job growth in February, the economic recovery has slowed after a strong finish to 2010

Corporate Canada has a message for all the political parties as they hurtle towards an election: Don't touch the corporate tax cuts.

"Once you begin to roll these back you begin to raise doubts in the minds of investors," said Jayson Meyers, president and chief executive of the Canadian Manufacturers and Exporters association.

"We're in a period of time when businesses are making major investments coming out of a recession and in my mind uncertainty about what any future government would do about the corporate tax cuts certainly doesn't help."

Fallen firefighters remembered as heroes

Two volunteer firefighters were remembered as heroes Thursday as thousands gathered in a small southern Ontario town to honour the men who died battling a blaze.

Premier Dalton McGuinty was among those who paid tribute to Ray Walter, 30, of Listowel and Ken Rea, 56, of nearby Atwood. The pair died last week after part of a burning Listowel dollar store collapsed while they were inside.

Both men were "nothing less than heroes," McGuinty told the crowd that packed the local arena for the funeral.

When called, the premier said, the men "stepped forward and said 'Here I am, send me.'"

NATO takes Libya mission

ARIS MESSINIS/GETTY IMAGES

► The U.S. has been eager to hand off control of the mission to NATO
► Canada is 'all in,' says Defence Minister Peter MacKay

NATO agreed Thursday to become more involved in the international military mission against Libya in an arrangement that papers over the same fault lines that strained the alliance during the Afghan war.

Canadian defence officials expressed satisfaction that NATO, which is turning into the world's premier police force, will be in charge of both the no-fly zone and the international arms embargo against Moammar Gadhafi's regime by the week-end.

A deal in principle was reached after drawn-out negotiations, described as "fluid and hot" by Defence Minister Peter MacKay.

What remains to be hammered out are the rules under which NATO warplanes can operate.

Early Thursday, the alliance agreed to be in charge of the naval blockade that aims to prevent arms, munitions and mercenaries from slipping in to Libya.

But the sticking point remained how far NATO was prepared to go in enforcing the no-fly zone.

Turkey, a major partner and the only Muslim nation in the alliance, balked at warplanes going on the offensive.

Germany has made it clear it will not participate in military action ► Libyan rebels run for cover Thursday in Ajdabiya as a government forces tank shell explodes nearby. The rebels are trying to retake the strategic eastern oil town from troops loyal to Moammar Gadhafi.

Canadian planes

The Harper government last week dispatched six CF-18s to enforce the no-fly zone.

► It added a seventh aircraft as a spare early this week.

► Defence Minister Peter MacKay said the option to send the Auroras, which were offered to the coalition, was there last week, but the air force wanted to make sure there was no gap in maritime patrols at home.

and has withdrawn its ships and aircraft from the Mediterranean altogether.

MacKay noted that the aim of negotiations in Brussels was to come up with a hybrid arrangement, much like the division of labour in the Afghan war.

"There are those who are all in, like Canada, and those that have caveats," MacKay said.

Ottawa was pushing for a deal that would allow some nations to patrol the no-fly zone without resorting to air-to-ground bombing, while other countries, such as the U.S., Britain and Canada, would carry on with more risky assignment of attacking Gadhafi's military.

"That is Canada's position. That is what we are advancing and will continue to advance," he said.

Gadhafi's tanks back in Misrata

Earlier in the week, Canadian fighters joined coalition air assaults that destroyed an ammunition depot and helped drive Gadhafi's tanks out of blood-soaked Misrata, Libya's third-largest city. Eyewitnesses on the ground say the tanks rolled back into the city early Thursday under the cover of darkness.

Reports coming out of Misrata, a city of 500,000, last week spoke of innocent civilians shot in the streets by soldiers loyal to Gadhafi.

Deadline raises pressure on rebel forces

Fighter jets hit aircraft and a crossroads military base deep inside Libya Thursday and NATO sailors prepared to board suspect ships, blocking new weapons and foreign fighters from re-supplying Moammar Gadhafi's depleted forces by land, sea and air.

France set a time frame on the international action at days or weeks — not months.

The possibility of a looming deadline raised pressure on rebel forces. So did the arms embargo, which keeps both Gadhafi and his outgunned opposition from getting more weapons.

The rebels were so strapped Thursday that they handed out sneakers — and not guns — at one of their checkpoints.

"We are facing cannons, T-72 and T-92 tanks, so what do we need? We need anti-tank weapons, things like that," said Col. Ahmed Omar Bani, a military spokesman to reporters in Benghazi, the de facto rebel capital.

► Libyan teenagers wearing police uniforms regulate the traffic Thursday in Benghazi.

"We are preparing our army now. Before there was no army, but now there is an idea to prepare a new army with new armaments and new morals."

French Foreign Minister Alain Juppe told RTL radio that in addition to protecting civilians, the mission "is also about putting Gadhafi's opponents, who are fighting for democracy and freedom, in a situation of taking back the advantage."

Communications

Libyan state TV showed blackened and mangled bodies that it said were victims of air strikes in Tripoli.

► But rebels have accused Gadhafi's forces of taking bodies from the morgue and pretending they are civilian casualties.

► The Gadhafi regime has asked international forces to spare its broadcast and communications infrastructure.

Man sentenced to death for knife rampage

A Japanese court Thursday sentenced to death a man convicted for a stabbing rampage in a popular Tokyo shopping district.

Tomohiro Kato, 28, pleaded guilty last year to murdering seven people and wounding 10 others in a crime that horrified the nation.

The former factory worker slammed a truck into a crowd of people and then stabbed passersby.

The Tokyo District Court determined Kato was mentally competent at the time.

It rejected the defence's request for leniency in sentencing, according to Kyodo news agency.

Former escort speaks out on RCMP probe

► Ex-PMO aide's girlfriend stood to benefit from public contract ► PM adviser investigated for illegal lobbying

A former escort at the heart of an RCMP probe over allegations her politically connected boyfriend illegally lobbied on her behalf has broken her silence.

Michele McPherson is acknowledging her past work in the "sex trade"—but the 22-year-old says in a statement that she left that line of work some time ago.

An investigation by the Aboriginal Peoples Television Network said Bruce Carson, a former top adviser to the prime minister, allegedly lobbied the government on behalf of a water company in Ottawa that employed McPherson.

APTN reported McPherson stood to benefit from a plan to sell water filtration systems to reserves with water quality problems.

According to the network, McPherson signed a contract last Aug. 31 that would entitle her to 20 per cent of the project's gross sales in a venture Carson was pushing.

But McPherson says that contract was cancelled and her new deal is tied to "performance measures."

Her statement did not mention her 65-year-old boyfriend or the allegations against him.

The Prime Minister's Office has called in the RCMP over the allegations in the reports.

Money woes

Bruce Carson went bankrupt, with thousands of dollars of debt, before becoming one of Prime Minister Stephen Harper's closest advisers.

- Property records show Carson and Michele McPherson paid $389,500 in December for a house in Mountain, Ont.
- APTN also reported that McPherson drives a black Mercedes SUV that Carson purchased.
- The matter has been referred to the office of the conflict of interest and ethics commissioner.

► The name of Michele McPherson, 22, appears on a secret contract witnessed by Bruce Carson that guaranteed her 20 per cent of all gross revenues from sales related to water contracts on First Nations reserves, according to a copy of the contract obtained by an APTN investigative team.

Barrie man dies after distress call to prison

Ontario's police watchdog says a man who was taken to hospital from a Barrie police cell died in hospital.

The Special Investigations Unit said police arrested Jason Snow, 38, last Saturday near the Barrie bus station.

Snow was placed in a cell and was found to be in medical distress at about 11 p.m.

He was taken to Royal Victoria Hospital and admitted to intensive care.

The SIU said Snow died in hospital Tuesday.

An autopsy is scheduled for Friday.

Another quake hits

► Hospital patients in Chiang Rai province, northern Thailand, were moved to this outdoor enclosure after the powerful Myanmar earthquake shook buildings over a wide area.

► Now Myanmar jolted, woman killed ► Faraway Bangkok shaken

Is this the year of the earthquake? First, New Zealand and Japan. Now Myanmar, also known as Burma.

A powerful quake struck northeastern Myanmar Thursday night, killing one woman and shaking buildings as far away as Bangkok. No tsunami was generated.

Homes and at least one bridge were damaged in several villages along Myanmar's borders with Thailand and Laos, residents said.

There were also reports of minor damage in northern Thailand, where a woman died when a brick wall collapsed on her. The spires fell off two pagodas.

"The tremor was so strong and things fell down from the shelves. It was very scary, and we all ran out to the streets,"

Deep danger

► The 6.8-magnitude quake was 10 kilometres deep, according to the U.S. Geological Survey.

said a 25-year old woman who runs a mini-mart in Tachileik, a Myanmar town near the border.

Buildings swayed hundreds of kilometres away, including in Bangkok, Hanoi, Vietnam, and Mandalay, Myanmar.

"We are afraid to go back into the house," said a 34-year-old woman from Mandalay.

Australian Max Jones was in his 27th-floor Bangkok apartment when his building started shaking so hard he had to grab the walls to keep from falling. "It was bloody scary," he said.

Israeli aircraft struck the Gaza Strip Thursday in response to militant rocket and mortar attacks, stoking concerns that a grave new round of hostilities will fill the vacuum left by an impasse in Israeli-Palestinian peacemaking.

Militants operating near the Israeli border sent at least nine rockets and mortars — including two rockets that reached the

Syria considers civil liberties

LOUAI BESHARA/GETTY IMAGES

The Syrian government pledged Thursday to consider lifting draconian restrictions on political freedom and civil liberties in an attempt to quell a week-long uprising that protesters say has left dozens fatally shot by security forces.

The pledges appeared unlikely to satisfy demonstrators in the southern city of Daraa, where thousands have been calling for liberty, defying the crackdown as they take to the streets for funeral marches.

Presidential adviser Buthaina Shaaban told reporters in the capital, Damascus, that President Bashar Assad's government would consider lifting a state of emergency, in place since 1963, that allows people to be arrested without war-

Yemen's youth power

► Leaders of Yemen's youth uprising set out their demands ► Organizers hoping that several million will turn out for Friday demonstrations

The youth groups who began a month-long uprising said Thursday they wanted a new constitution and the dissolution of parliament, local councils and Yemen's notorious security agencies in addition to the immediate ouster of the president. The widening demands appear to reflect the perception that President Ali Abdullah Saleh's regime has been badly weakened by weeks of unrelenting protests, and the defection to the opposition of a string of powerful officials including members of the president's inner circle.

Several senior military commanders, lawmakers, cabinet ministers, diplomats and provincial governors have also defected to the opposition over the last week.

Spaghetti brawl on N.Y.C. train sparks food debate

New York City's subway riders can handle panhandlers, rats and tuneless street musicians. But eating spaghetti in a crowded subway car? Well, that's just going too far.

An Internet video that shows New Yorkers brawling over a passenger's right to nosh noodles on the subway has ignited a debate about what people should and shouldn't do in the nation's largest mass transit system.

The video, posted online anonymously, picks up mid-argument, as a woman twirls onto her fork spaghetti from a takeout container and a passenger across the aisle chides her. "What kind of animals eat on the train like that?" says the woman across the aisle.

The diner snaps back with an epithet, and the exchange quickly degenerates into a fistfight.

"Chill out!" shouts a man as he tries to pull apart the two combatants.

The video has touched a

The food debate

► On Internet sites, hundreds of viewers of the spaghetti skirmish debated the smell and the spilling of subterranean snacks. One YouTube contributor mixed video of the fight with scenes from the violent 1983 Al Pacino crime drama Scarface.

"I think it's nasty when people eat," said Sam Ramos, as he rode a 5 train to the Bronx. "They should go somewhere else."

But at the other end of the car, John Augustine dug into a cup of chili and said people should mind their own business.

"People will fight about all kinds of things," Augustine said. "Are we going to legislate against every one of them?" THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wife of sex killer wants divorce records sealed

The wife of former colonel and convicted sex killer Russell Williams wants her divorce proceedings kept from the public.

Mary Elizabeth Harriman's lawyer was in an Ottawa court arguing for a seal — or at least a publication ban — on her financial and medical records.

That would cover a deal the couple signed shortly after Williams was charged with two counts of first-degree murder in the deaths of two eastern Ontario women.

The agreement shifted ownership of the couple's assets to Harriman.

Harriman's lawyer Mary Jane Binks said opening the divorce proceedings to the public would cause her client even greater harm than she has already experienced.

Williams was a rising star in the military and commander at Canadian Forces Base Trenton before being sentenced to life in prison for the murders, a pair of sexual assaults and dozens of fetish break-ins.

Duncan warns Ontarians against Tories deep cuts

► In a lead up to the spring election, Ontario Finance Minister Dwight Duncan warns Ontarians against Tim Hudak ► Jails pointed to for savings

Next week's Ontario budget will outline a plan to find $1.5 billion in savings over three years to help rebalance the books, Finance Minister Dwight Duncan promised Thursday.

In a speech to the Toronto Board of Trade, Duncan hinted that some government programs will be on the chopping block as the Liberals work to eliminate the deficit by 2017.

One of the areas where the province will find savings are Ontario's aging jails, which Duncan said are inefficient because they don't hold as many prisoners as they could.

Moving prisoners to new, bigger jails in places like Toronto and Windsor will save money that will be redeployed towards policing and victims' services, he said.

Other government programs may be axed if there's someone else who can do it better, more efficiently and in a way that delivers better results for people, Duncan added.

However, there are no plans to sell off the province's big assets, such as the Liquor Control Board, he said.

"We have to be more creative and really look at how we do government better to get at waste and to be more efficient," he said.

There won't be any tax cuts either in Tuesday's budget, and Duncan promised to deliver "positive numbers" about Ontario's economic growth.

The Liberals won't slash front-line education or health care to staunch the red ink, he said.

Duncan cautioned voters, saying they should be afraid of Tim Hudak taking the reins because his cuts will be deep.

"What they are very clearly setting up to do is put us in a deeper deficit hole," he said, referring to the Conservatives.

"Seventy per cent of your budget is spent on health care and education," Duncan added. "You're going to have a situation like you did when Mr. Hudak was part of the Harris government, where you wind up closing hospitals, closing schools."

Tory finance critic Norm Miller said he doesn't believe the Liberals will ever stop their rampant spending.

"Look at their track record: They're the government that greatly increased spending by some 70 per cent," he said. "They're on track to double the debt of the province. I think they could be elected 100 years and they won't balance the budget." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Background

► Federally, the deficit is the largest in Canadian history.

► The opposition came out firmly against the Harper government's budget.

► Among the items at issue is the cost of a fighter jet program and the projected maintenance costs. In the U.S., the same program more than doubled in costs to $148 million from its original forecast of $75 million.

► The feds have also been found in contempt of Parliament twice in the last month.

► Dwight Duncan says one of the areas in which he will find savings is Ontario's aging, inefficient jails that don't hold as many prisoners as they could.

Pressure is on Obama

► Facing criticism on all sides ► Has just two weeks to broker budget deal

Returning home to some messy politics, U.S. President Barack Obama must contend with a battery of challenges, from a spending standoff that threatens to shut down the government to congressional angst over the U.S.-led war against Libya. Foreign crises rage across Africa and the Middle East, and Americans still want a faster improving economy from their president, too.

Obama left behind a wave of good will in Latin America as he shored up alliances that the White House said would prove pivotal for years to come. Yet the timing made for political and logistical headaches, as his five-day trip to Brazil, Chile and El Salvador took place just as the United States and allies launched a UN-sanctioned assault against Moammar Gadhafi's government in Libya.

Now, lawmakers are questioning the costs and objective of the military action there while voicing growing frustration that Obama did not consult with Congress more thoroughly before authorizing the U.S. air strikes. Republican Sen. John Cornyn encapsulated much Republican sentiment by asking in a tweet: "Is Congress going to assert its constitutional role or be a potted plant?"

No sooner had Obama touched down on U.S. soil late Wednesday afternoon than Republican House of Representatives Speaker John Boehner issued him a blistering letter demanding more details about the steps ahead on Libya.

We Don't Sell Car Insurance.

We help you find lower insurance rates to save you money.

Savings are just a click away!

The key to finding the lowest price on your insurance is comparing as many insurance companies as possible. But how can you do this without wasting a lot of time and effort. Is there a better way?

YES! There's an easier AND much faster way. By spending just a few minutes on InsuranceHotline.com, you'll find rates from within our large network of licensed professionals that are tailored to your personal driving profile.

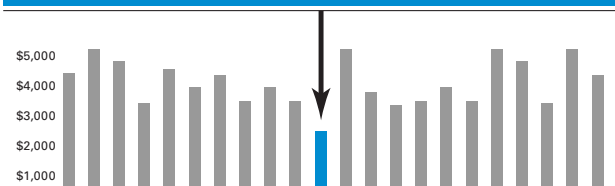

So How Does InsuranceHotline.com Work Exactly?

Users complete a simple online form, answering the same basic questions asked by most insurance brokers and agents. The process typically takes 5-10 minutes. InsuranceHotline.com then runs this information against its database of over 30 insurance companies to find the lowest rate available through its large network of licensed insurance professionals. If you are interested in obtaining the rate presented, InsuranceHotline.com allows you to connect with a member of our network who can provide the rate quoted. There is never any obligation and best of all it's FREE!

Portugal faces EU bailout

► Government resigns after rejection of debt-reduction plan ► Interest rate reaches euro-era record

Portugal's financial collapse appeared inevitable Thursday, as markets took the government's resignation as proof the debt-heavy country will lose its year-long battle to avoid a bailout and deliver another setback to Europe's efforts to boost confidence in the euro.

Investors fearful about Portugal's future pushed the interest rate on its 10-year bonds to a euro-era record of 7.71 per cent — a financial burden that is unsustainable and could soon force the country to ask for a rescue like Greece and Ireland did last year.

The government quit Wednesday after opposition parties rejected its latest debt-reduction plan, generating a new bout of market jitters over the country's future and likely shortening the time it can hold out before asking for help.

Juergen Michels, an economist at Citigroup in London, said a bailout for Portugal is firmly in the cards. The government's resignation "shows that the problems are really huge and unless the market is supportive (Portugal) will need help — and the markets aren't supportive at the moment," he said.

President Anibal Cavaco Silva is scheduled to meet with all political parties Friday to decide the way forward. Elections would not be possible before the end of May, leaving months of unwelcome, and costly, uncertainty ahead.

Market crash

Upheaval in Portugal was a blow for European leaders who are trying to reassure markets about the soundness of 17-nation euro zone investments.

► In Lisbon, there was a mood of resignation and dismay as subway workers walked off the job.

► It is unclear how soon Portugal could take a bailout.

► Market movements showed few fears that pressures will spread to another country, such as Spain.

Don't write off cheques just yet

- Cheque payments in Canada expected to decline to $113 billion by 2014, down from $144 billion in 2009
- But a paper trail still has its uses, experts say

Cheques may seem old-fashioned in a world gone digital. They're costlier, take longer to process and are a good deal more bothersome than swiping a piece of plastic or tapping a computer keyboard. Nevertheless, the paper payment system still has certain benefits, financial experts say. "I think the cheque's future is downward, but it's going to be with us for a while," says Christie Christelis of Technology Strategies International in Oakville. Over the past 15 years, the debit card has displaced the cheque almost completely in the retail sector, he says.

But while it's cheaper to pay bills using online banking, schools, summer camps and most small businesses still use cheques. "It's a useful tool," says

Igor Romanov, owner of ARS International, an appliance-repair business in Montreal. "It's less expensive for the customer and less problems for me," he says, adding he has had very few bad cheques. Otherwise, Romanov says he would have to pass on to customers the price of a wireless payment device.

NEBS Canada, which supplies cheques to small businesses, says the use of cheques has remained relatively stable in recent years. "Mostly, it's for the paper trail," says Wes Carrington of NEBS in Midland, Ont.

"And when you're doing your accounts payable or payroll, it's always nice to have that receipt to show that you've made the payment," he says.

New reactors mean more cancer: Critic

► Anti-nuclear campaigner attacks Darlington growth

Dr. Helen Caldicott's message to a panel weighing a proposal for two new nuclear reactors at Darlington Nuclear Generating Station was stark and unequivocal: "No radiation is safe."

The veteran anti-nuclear campaigner launched a scathing attack on nuclear energy and its advocates before the panel, warning: "Increasing background radiation is going to increase cancer."

It wasn't comforting. It wasn't meant to be.

"Every male in the Northern Hemisphere has a tiny load of plutonium in his testicles from nuclear (weapons) testing days," Caldicott said, as men in the audience squirmed.

Her message was a stark

contrast to the measured tones of Ontario Power Generation, the agency tasked with generating and selling electricity in Ontario, which insisted the project poses no credible risk.

"We are confident the project will not result in significant adverse effects on the health of our workers or the public," said Laurie Swami, OPG's vice-president of nuclear regulatory programs.

Or in the somewhat more tortured phraseology of Jack Vecchiarelli, OPG's section manager of safety analysis: "We considered a hypothetical criticality event out of core and found that the dose that would be received within a short distance would not trigger an evacuation of the public."

Caldicott said she can't understand how Canada can be quite so calmly rational about nuclear power.

► Homeowner Jeff Grossi, left, watches as energy auditor Mike Giacco performs a blower door fan test, which tests for air leakages in the home.

Critics question popular retrofit energy plan

► Provincial program that offers rebates for upgrading to energy-efficient appliances expires at end of month

Despite some less than ideal weather, renovator Tony Radocchia has had a busier than expected March.

"There's been a lot to do, even though it's typically slow at this time of the year," says Radocchia, owner of Woodbridge-based Ambia Windows and Doors Inc.

Much of that is due to a provincial energy savings program that expires at the end of the month.

The renovator estimates the program has been responsible for a 20 per cent bump in his business over the years. With the provincial program gone, and a matching federal program expired last year, Radocchia worries about the future.

The renovator is hoping that the Conservative government's plans unveiled this week to keep the ecoEnergy home retrofit program alive under the 2011 budget will survive.

Opposition parties have rejected the budget, which includes $400 million to keep the program going for another year. Introduced in 2007, the program grants homeowners as much as $5,000 back to renovate homes. It was suspended last year.

But critics of the program say reintroducing the program is more about politics than good economics.

"If you're using public policy to incentivise public behaviour, then this is not the way to go," said Benjamin Dachis, a policy analyst with the C.D. Howe Institute. "There is no leverage here, because this is something many people would have done anyway, so you are simply giving money away for private, not public benefit."

Simon Fraser University Prof. Mark Jaccard also argues against the use of subsidies saying even though there are cost savings to be had, they also trigger increasing use of energy.

► Tamara and Jordin Mimran are the children of Saul Mimran, president of the Mimran Group (and older brother of Joe Mimran, the creative director of the Loblaws-owned Joe Fresh chain and co-founder of Club Monaco). Moon's brand of stylish but affordable designs carries the Mimran label of quality without the hefty price tag. The line's spring collection is available at The Bay.

5 MINUTES WITH: TAMARA AND JORDIN MIMRAN

The next generation of Canada's first fashion dynasty follows in the family's well-heeled footsteps with their own joint effort clothing line, Moon.

What's it like to work so closely with your sibling?

Jordin: I think most people think it's difficult working with a family member. I actually think it's easier because we might get on each other's nerves but we know we're just doing things to make sure they're the best they can possibly be. At the end of the day we always leave with a smile on our face. Tamara: And we understand each other's personalities so much better than anyone else would. I get Jordin and he understands me, so if I disagree with him, it's never really about ego, it's just about the product.

Was this the first time you've both taken such a major creative role in the development of a line?

J: Yes. Tamara works on Pure Alfred Sung as well, and I worked with Alfred on Alfred Sung Home, but this was the biggest project we've worked on thus far, and it was our first project together.

You both grew up surrounded by fashion. Was there ever a moment where you thought, "No thanks, I think I'll try medicine?"

J: Oh definitely. I spent a couple of summers working retail at Club Monaco and I hated that. I was into music when I was younger and I really wanted to pursue that.

T: I went to McGill for economics. I thought I might go into some sort of fashion management later on, but even in my last year of university I thought it might be in a more managerial role — not accounting, but consulting.

Did you both have access to all these fabulous clothes when you were growing up, or was there a strict hands-off policy?

J: (Laughs) There was a little bit of a rule in our house. You couldn't wear certain competitors' brands, and definitely the majority of our wardrobe was made up of Club Monaco. You can imagine friends at school that would ask, "Can we get a discount?"

Future creative aspirations?

T: For Moon it's to keep growing to its full potential. There's a lot more we can do with it, a lot more styles we can infuse. Menswear is a next venture that's really exciting for us. ● JORDANA DIVON

Treasure trove of artifacts

Worth mentioning

The discovery of ancient stone tools at an archaeological dig in Texas could push back the presence of humans in North America, perhaps by as much as 2,500 years.

Thousands of artifacts dating to between 13,200 and 15,500 years ago were uncovered by researchers led by Michael R. Waters of Texas A&M University. They report the discovery in Friday's edition of the journal Science.

The find was located five feet below materials left by the well-known Clovis culture, which was once thought to have been the first American settlers around 13,000 years ago.

'Holy Grail'

MICHAEL R. WATERS/SCIENCE/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was "like finding the Holy Grail," Waters said. To find what appears to be a large open-air campsite "is really gratifying. Lucky and gratifying."

The trove of 15,528 artifacts, including chipping debris from working stones and 56 tools such as blades, scrapers and choppers, was found in the Buttermilk Creek complex near Austin.

The location is the oldest credible archaeological site in North America, Waters said at a briefing. The artifacts were found in a 20-centimetre layer beneath 1.5 metres of earth and other material from later human occupation at the site.

Despite the wealth of First Nations art and culture available in Canada, there are surprisingly few places to appreciate it in Toronto. Aside from the Museum of Inuit Art down by Harbourfront, there's a lack of mainstream exposure dedicated to the vast contributions and talents of our country's first inhabitants. The Native Canadian Centre of Toronto at 16 Spadina

Chris Brown apologized for his destructive tantrum at Good Morning America earlier this week, explaining that he was surprised that his attack on Rihanna was brought up during his interview and needed to "let out steam" after getting upset. ABC News said the 21-year-old singer smashed a window in his dressing room Tuesday after he was interviewed by GMA co-host Robin Roberts on the show.

Who's the Sucker?

- Richard Crouse and Mark Breslin debate the merits of Sucker Punch
- 300 director Zach Snyder brings the visuals, but movie lacks plot and heart

Richard Crouse: Mark, the first thing that came to mind after watching Sucker Punch was, "What the heck was that?" The visual sensualist in me loved the look of it, but the rest of me wanted other things. Like a story. Or characters. It made my eyeballs dance, but left the rest of me bored. You?

Mark Breslin: Bored would be an improvement on how I felt. I HATED this thing. It was structured and shot like a video game. Angry Birds has more character development. And the acting? The lead, Emily Browning, had one expression throughout, a doleful countenance that made me think she had a gastrointestinal problem. Can you find anything good to say about this flick, Richard?

Plot synopsis

► Emily Browning plays Baby Doll, wrongfully imprisoned in a mental institution where a sadistic orderly, Blue Jones (Oscar Isaac), has her scheduled for a lobotomy. As it turns out this medical facility is also facilitating more than just its patients, so Baby Doll hatches an escape plan involving a mix of fantasy and reality. Aided by four other inmates she has just one week to get away before her scheduled operation.

► Ratings:
Richard: ●●●● for visuals,
● for everything else = ●●
Mark: ●

Besides the "look"?

RC: It's hard to find much to say about this other than commenting on the look. The soundtrack is interesting and Snyder has a way with a camera, just not so much with the story. I also expected more from the action sequences. Unlike Kill Bill, another gr-r power movie with samurai swords, the action scenes here are all basically the same. Tarantino understood the value of the violence and changed it up. Snyder doesn't.

MB: Snyder is to Tarantino as Salieri is to Mozart ... I will give Jena Malone credit for making me feel something and it was nice seeing Scott Glenn, even though he's looking more like a carving board every day. But the cruelty of the movie wore me down, and the idea of a mental institution used as a front for a brothel was too ridiculous even as a fantasy within a fantasy. And what's with Jon Hamm's cameo at the end? Huh?

RC: I cannot imagine why Jon Hamm would take this role. It's one of those parts that the characters talk about a great deal but when they finally show up on screen they only have three or four lines. He could have shot this on his lunch break from Mad Men. I don't get it. I do get Abbie Cornish however. For one thing she looks like a young Nicole Kidman, and for another she, for me, was the best part of the movie.

MB: The best part of the movie for me was when it ended. By the way, one of the production credits reads "A Cruel and Unusual Production." 'Nuff said.

RC: Agreed. High ain't-it-cool factor, but no heart.

The King's Speech washed out with soap, PG-13 version to be released

Monaghan on board for repeats

► Source Code actress had fun with replaying scene after scene ► Shaking trains however, not as fun

PHIL BROWN
SCENE@METRONWS.CA

Source Code is an odd film that falls somewhere between a sci-fi action movie and Groundhog Day. Jake Gyllenhaal stars as a soldier assigned to experimental technology that allows him to repeatedly relive the last eight minutes leading up to a terrorist attack on a commuter train until he uncovers the man responsible.

Over the course of the mission he also falls for a mysterious young woman played by Michelle Monaghan, eight minutes at a time. Metro got a chance to speak with Monaghan, and the actress admitted that she initially struggled with high concept screenplay.

"It was a little tough to wrap your head around at first, but very quickly I was sucked into it," Monaghan said. "The script constantly gains momentum and as I kept reading I was so drawn in that any confusion disappeared."

The complicated screenplay provided a unique acting challenge for Monaghan, who had to essentially replay the same scene with incremental changes leading up to an inevitably explosive climax.

"I was really excited and intrigued by the idea of playing the same scene over and over again, while adding little nuances and new pieces of information to change it tonally," explained the actress. "We had a whole map of the different realities to help us keep things straight on the set. We all came up with funny names for each reality."

"The first was called 'Alfred Hitchcock Source Code' because Jake's clueless and I'm mysterious. It was silly, but also the only way we could distinguish between the scenes."

Despite all of the logistical challenges inherent in such a complex concept, the actress joked that the biggest challenge she faced shooting was something else entirely.

"The only thing that got to us after a while was that the train set was constantly shaking, so when we got off all the actors would stumble across the sound stage. I'm sure the crew loved it."

► Michelle Monaghan stars in Source Code, which opens next Friday.

Essential Killing boss finds the right pace

► Jerzy Skolimowski's tale about a Taliban fighter doesn't miss a beat

ADAM
SCENE@METRONWS.CA

A critical hit at last year's Toronto International Film Festival, Jerzy Skolimowski's Essential Killing features the year's most unique bit of casting: the infamous American actor and musician Vincent Gallo in a wordless performance as a Taliban fighter captured by American forces and chased through a snowy, nameless European country.

"We knew each other from California," says the 72-year old filmmaker, a leading light in the Polish New Wave of the 1960s who also co-wrote Roman Polanski's debut feature Knife in the Water. "Two hours after I gave him the script he said, 'I'm from Buffalo, so I'm used to low temperatures and running barefoot through the snow. He wanted to do it.'"

The director says he'd hoped to do most of the shooting around his home in Poland, but that he couldn't count on enough snow and had to film a lot in Norway. "Snow is the national product there."

When the film premiered last year in Venice (where Gallo won the Best Actor prize) Skolimowski was bombarded with questions about whether or not the film was a political statement, but he maintains he had a different purpose in conceiving the story.

"For me, the most important thing is the process that turns a human being ► Vincent Gallo stars in Essential Killing.

into a wild animal," he explains. "He's fighting for his life."

What's interesting is that as Gallo's nameless protagonist becomes more desperate, the film's pace slows, rather than accelerates — almost an action movie in reverse.

"I felt like if I grabbed the audience's attention in the first few scenes, like an action movie, I could gradually slow the pace and turn it into a more poetic or philosophical film," says Skolimowski, adding that it was precisely these tactics that caught the attention of the Venice jury's president Quentin Tarantino.

"He congratulated me specifically about the pace of the film, and said that if I had missed even one beat, it would have failed. Luckily, it didn't."

"STYLISH, SUSPENSEFUL AND THOROUGHLY ENTERTAINING."

Radnor takes on three jobs in his directorial debut

► How I Met Your Mother star didn't original plan to direct Sundance favourite HappyThankYouMorePlease

NED EHRBAR
SCENE@METRONWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN LOS ANGELES

In HappyThankYouMorePlease, Josh Radnor (from TV's How I Met Your Mother) stars as a struggling New York writer who, on his way to a meeting with a publisher, rescues a young boy separated from his foster family on the subway.

Behind the scenes, Radnor also served as the writer and first-time director for the film. He sat down with Metro to talk about falling in love with directing, getting details right and the ongoing tug-of-war between New York and Los Angeles.

You've mentioned that directing the film wasn't initially your idea.

It wasn't. I wrote it to be the writer and the actor in it. But I'm really happy I did direct it because I really fell in love with directing. It was fantastic. If I did anything right in this movie, I surrounded myself with the right people in front of the camera and behind the camera. They just saved my ass. Directing this movie was my favourite thing I've done probably in my life creatively. It was a little like falling in love with a person that you didn't quite picture yourself with.

Did you have to do a lot of research to keep elements like the foster child storyline authentic?

You might have an idea, and you play it out and you actually have to say, "Well, what would really happen?" If this guy takes a kid who's in the foster system, would the parents report him missing? You don't want people to leave the movie and go, "Why didn't the cops ever come? Why were there no consequences for this?" I was trying to create a world that was very real, and to me, in that world, if a foster kid goes missing for three days, there's going to be consequences to that.

There are a lot of comparisons between New York and L.A. in the film. Where do you stand? I'm a big fan of L.A., actually. People who see the movie probably think my heart is in New York, and that's not entirely true. I actually like Los Angeles. New York is just a little easier to kind of glom onto things that are wonderful about it, and L.A., you kind of have to live here a while before you discover that.

Movie review

See it twice (★★★★★) | See it now (★★★★) | Worth watching (★★★) | Yawn (★★) | Don't bother (★)

Hobo knows what the fans want

Hobo With A ShotgunGenre: ActionDirector: Jason EisenerStars: Rutger Hauer, Gregory Smith, Robb Wells

While most Canadian films can be described as small-scale introspective dramas, Hobo With A Shotgun is pure exploitation trash. It might not sound like it, but that's actually a good thing.

This is easily the most ludicrously entertaining movie to emerge from our country in quite some time. A blood-drenched homage to the twisted genre faire that first-time director Jason Eisener watched on worn out VHS tapes growing up.

It's about a dirty little town where everyone murders, rapes, maims, and tortures to appease a corrupt crime lord and amuse themselves on weeknights. Only a transient hobo with a shotgun, a teen-prostitute sidekick, and a dream of owning a lawn care business can make things right.

Eisener knows the type of movie he's making and has no pretensions of creating art. Instead, he throws as much blood and humour on the screen as possible, pummeling the audience with gory spectacle until they are entertained. With a fantastic lead turn from Rutger

Hauer and countless cameos from cult Canadian actors like The Trailer Park Boys' Robb Wells, every character is memorable in a two-dimensional trash movie way. Destined to play to squealing (and possibly inebriated) audiences at late night screenings for years, cinematic guilty pleasures don't come much more pleasingly offensive than this. ● PHIL BROWN

Diary of a Wimpy Kid: Rodrick Rules*Genre: ComedyDirector: David BowersStars: Zachary Gordon, Devon Bostick

★★½

The second cinematic adaptation of the hugely popular series of books, Diary of a Wimpy Kid: Rodrick Rules follows Greg Heffley and his continuing transition into awkward adolescence. While the story primarily focuses on Greg's tumultuous relationship with his brother, the episodic plotting struggles to find balance despite several genuinely funny and authentic moments.

● STEVE GOW

West is West*Genre: ComedyDirector: Andy deEmmoryStars: Aqib Khan, Om Puri

A nicely shaped sequel to 1999's hit comedy East is East, West is West picks up the story of the Khan family — whose Pakistan-born paterfamilias George (Om Puri) spend the first film struggling with his sons' assimilation into British society — five years later. In this instalment, George drags youngest son Sajid (Aqib Khan) to Pakistan to foster an appreciation for his heritage, but the story is really about the older man and the impossibility of having a foot in two cultures at once. ● ADAM NAYMAN

Carmen 3D*Genre: OperaDirector: Julian NapierStars: Christine Rice, Bryan Hymel, Aris Argiris

Carmen 3D is the latest attempt to bring the live opera experience to movie theatres, this time taking on Carmen and Don Jose's dirty, tragic dance. The stage production itself is remarkable, filled with matadors, outlaws, gypsies, live horses, vast choruses, talented dancers, knife fights, and bosoms all popping out of the screen in 3-D. In the end, though impressive, this is no substitute for the live experience.

● PHIL BROWN

Win Win*Genre: ComedyDirector: Thomas McCarthyStars: Paul Giamatti, Amy Ryan, Jeffrey Tambor

Thomas McCarthy follows up The Visitor with another low-key character piece about outsiders forming makeshift families. This time his focus is on Paul Gia-matti's struggling small-town lawyer and wrestling coach who manipulates a judge to make extra cash off of an elderly client and then finds himself caring for the man's troubled and talented wrestler grandson. As usual, what sounds like a soapy set up feels painfully real and hilarious in McCarthy's hands. ● PHIL BROWN

Certified Copy*Genre: DramaDirector: Abbas KiarostamiStars: Juliette Binoche, William Shimell

The great Iranian filmmaker Abbas Kiarostami shot his new film Certified Copy in Tuscany, and the scenery is beautiful. Kiarostami's enigmatic movie addresses many of the same issues he's treated throughout his career — especially the nature of acting and storytelling. It's hard to tell if the central couple are looking back on years of marriage or meeting for the first time but the narrative is beguiling rather than frustrating.

● ADAM NAYMAN

A Matter of Size*Genre: ComedyDirectors: Sharon Maymon, Erez TadmorStars: Itzik Cohen, Dvir Benedek

A group of Israeli men form a sumo club in Sharon Maymon and Erez Tador's calculated crowd-pleaser, which paints its plus-sized protagonists' problems in broad strokes. The plotting, which finds lead character Hertzl (Itzik Cohen) hiding his new hobby from his girlfriend, proceeds on autopilot, and the score keeps insisting that the film is sweeter and funnier than it actually is. ● ADAM NAYMAN

Outside the Law*Genre: DramaDirector: Rachid BoucharebStars: Jamel Debouze, Roschdy Zem

An epically scaled account of the Algerian independence movement in France, Rachid Bouchareb's film was controversially received at Cannes — not least of all for comparing the FLN's struggle to the French resistance against the Nazis. Such simplistic equations belie the obvious skill of the filmmaking, which balances historical sweep against more intimate perspectives. ● ADAM NAYMAN

The Topp Twins: Untouchable GirlsGenre: DocumentaryDirector: Leanne PooleyStars: Jools and Lynda Topp

Combining archive footage and interviews, filmmaker Leanne Pooley uncovers (for Canadian audiences at least) one of New Zealand's most fascinating and enduring musical acts with The Topp Twins: Untouchable Girls. Profiling a pair of rural activist lesbian singing siblings, the documentary rises above preconceived notions to tell a refreshing real life story.

● STEVE GOW

White Irish DrinkersGenre: DramaDirector: John GrayStars: Nick Thurston, Karen Allen

★★½

Directed by TV's Ghost Whisperer creator John Gray, White Irish Drinkers is a familiar Brooklyn-set drama about blue-collar brothers taking opposite approaches to escape their abusive father and grim future — one through artistic means; the other as a thief. Convincing performances from a largely unknown cast elevate the gritty film beyond a handful of plot contrivances.

'We turned it into a rock concert'

► The 'fan-friendly' Junos is set to celebrate 40th anniversary

With events taking over Toronto throughout this week, the Junos have become an inescapable force. That saturation should only increase as Sunday's awards ceremony grows near.

CTV, the network that has broadcast the awards for the last 10 years, has packed Juno week with an additional 90 hours of Juno coverage over the broadcaster's slew of specialty channels.

"It's about the viewers and the fans being up close to their favourite bands," says Susanne Boyce, CTV's president of creative, content, and channels. "There's so much to participate in."

Paying tribute

► Aiming to look forward while paying homage to the past, Sunday's 40th anniversary show will include an all-star performance paying tribute to Canadian musical legends. City and Colour, Derek Miller, Justin Rutledge, Sarah Harmer, Sarah Slean, the Sadies, Greg Keelor and the Band's Garth Hudson will perform selections by Neil Young, Joni Mitchell, Gordon Lightfoot and the Band.

John Brunton, executive producer of the show for the last 17 years, agrees.

"The Junos are different from the Grammys in that they're a fan-friendly show," Brunton says.

The Junos were among the first awards shows to move the ceremony out of small, stuffy amphitheatres and into stadiums.

"We turned it into a rock concert."

Of course it's the live performances that inevitably imprint themselves onto Canadian psyches.

And this year's 40th anniversary show features a diverse swath of artists performing on what Brunton describes as the most high-tech set the Junos has ever attempted.

"When we started, the set looked like the Wheel of Fortune," says Brunton. Back then it was difficult to get Canadian artists to perform, let alone international ones. This year, classic artists like Sarah McLachlan will perform next to acts like Chromeo, Tokyo Police Club and "the hottest indie band in the world," Arcade Fire.

Leading the Juno charge of course is Drake, returning home to host the big show as well as competing for album and artist of the year honours.

"Who would have predicted a few years ago that the hottest rap artist in the world would be from Toronto," says Brunton. "We can compete with anyone in the world when it comes to music."

HANDICAPPING THE JUNOS

Sound Check

ALAN CROSS

SCENE@METRONWS.CA

With the 40th anniversary of the Juno Awards coming up Sunday from the Air Canada Centre in Toronto, it's time for some handicapping potshots.

Artist of the Year

Arcade Fire, Drake, Justin Bieber, Neil Young, Sarah McLachlan.

Should win: Artistically, critically and commercially, all things point to the Arcade Fire.

Will win: After the Grammy and Brit awards wins, it'll be very hard to deny the Arcade Fire's The Suburbs its trifecta. The bigger news will be if they don't win in their native country. And what will that say about us as a music-making nation?

Group of the Year

Arcade Fire, Broken Social Scene, Down with Webster, Great Big Sea, Three Days Grace.

Should win: Arcade Fire for the same reasons they should win Artist of the Year.

Will win: Arcade Fire. But think about this: Juno voting took place before the band won their Grammy and Brit awards. How many members of CARAS ticked the box for Broken Social Scene? How many of them would like a mulligan?

Single of the Year

Oh Canada/Classified, Find Your Love/Drake, Perfect/Hedley, Hallelujah (Vancouver 2010)/kd lang, Wavin' Flag/Young Artists for Haiti.

Should win: I honestly don't care. This is a very weak category.

Will win: A toss-up between kd lang (just because we remember her singing it at the Olympics), Drake (because he's also hosting the show) and Wavin' Flag (just because it's a feel-good song).

Album of the Year

The Suburbs/Arcade Fire, Thank Me Later/Drake, A Place Called Love/Johnny Reid, My World 2.0/Justin Bieber.

Should win: Arcade Fire. Just give it to them already.

Will win: Arcade Fire — I hope. Drake's record is good but not better than The Suburbs. Same goes for Johnny Reid, who breathed a lot of life back into country with this album. And Bieber? Please.

Juno Fan Choice

Drake, Hedley, Johnny Reid, Michael Bublé, Justin Bieber.

Should win: Because this is a fan's choice award, it doesn't matter who should win. It all comes down to the artist who has the most motivated and mobilized fans.

Will win: Leave it to Bieber. Can you imagine any universe where the outcome might be anything else?

I'd expect solid TV ratings for the show, too, thanks to the new phenomenon of everyone firing up Twitter during awards programs.

That's what I'll be doing. If you want to follow me, look for @alancross

▶ Kate Winslet and Guy Pearce in HBO miniseries Mildred Pierce

Winslet shines in miniseries

▶ HBO's adaptation of the 1941 novel Mildred Pierce will strike a chord with today's viewers ▶ Winslet stars as resourceful divorcée in Depression-era saga

A remarkable thing (and there are many) about the HBO miniseries Mildred Pierce is the way it breathes.

This five-part, five-and-a-half-hour adaptation of the 1941 James M. Cain novel is an unhurried period piece that sets the viewer down in Depression-era Glendale, Calif., and into the complicated world of its heroine.

But even as it inhabits a long-ago time and place, it also seems to dovetail with the current day. Leafy Glendale of 1931 isn't exactly the Dust Bowl, but it, like the rest of the country, has been slammed by economic crisis that, for the viewer, may strike a familiar chord.

Meanwhile, Mildred's plight is magnified: She is suddenly a divorcée, forced to find work to support herself and her two young daughters.

Ambitious and resourceful, Mildred will do that and then some: She builds a restaurant empire.

But during a saga stretching nearly a decade, Mildred, despite her business successes, will face class stigma and a stormy relationship with her precocious daughter, Veda.

She will also confront her sexual self, exploring "aspects of herself she never knew existed," in the words of Todd Haynes, who directed the miniseries and co-wrote its script.

This Mildred Pierce has only a nodding acquaintance with the much-remembered 1945 film, a murder whodunit that brought its star, Joan Crawford, a best actress Oscar.

Haynes calls his version "an intensely faithful adaptation of the novel."

Indeed, it feels like a gracefully direct translation into pictures and sound, complete with breathing room for the audience "to think and to draw connections yourself," as he puts it.

Kate Winslet is a marvel as Mildred, who is on-screen nearly every scene as she goes through many changes and the pressures that propel them.

But Guy Pearce shines in a pivotal supporting role as dashing man-about-town Monty Beragon, with whom Mildred shares impulsive romance, then much more.

Among moviegoers who know him, Pearce is perhaps best-known for his performance as the by-the-book cop in the 1997 crime noir L.A. Confidential and for Memento (2000).

In Mildred Pierce, he sports a devil-may-care attitude, a pencil moustache and a roadster as Monty, who sweeps Mildred off her feet at the end of Episode 2. He re-enters her life years later, in Episode 5.

The first two parts air Sunday at 9 p.m. ET, with subsequent episodes unfolding the next two Sundays. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lohan opting for trial in theft case

► Turns down plea deal ► Now facing up to three years in jail if convicted

Lindsay Lohan has officially rejected a plea bargain in her felony grand theft case and instead wants to go to trial, prosecutors tell People magazine.

Lohan's lawyer, Shawn Chapman Holley, notified the judge in the case this week that the actress wasn't interested in the deal, which included 90 days in jail and three years of probation.

A preliminary hearing is scheduled for April 22, and if she is eventually found guilty, Lohan faces up to three years in prison.

She could face additional jail time if a judge rules that the felony charge violates her probation from an earlier case.

Breakup blamed on Cooper's career

While speculation has run rampant as to why Renee Zellweger and Bradley Cooper split up last week, sources close to the former couple say the reason is clear.

"If I had to pick any possible mistress it would be Brad's career," a source tells Us Weekly.

"He worked really hard to get into leading man status. Renee had to take a backseat. She travelled with him to make it work."

Despite Zellweger's efforts, the source says it didn't work. "It was just not working out." ● METRO

Townsend regrets everything

While Pete Townsend became a rock legend thanks to his band, the Who, he says now that he regrets being a part of it.

"What would I have done differently? I would never have joined a band," he says in an interview with Uncut.

Townsend also attributes his hearing loss and other health issues to his involvement with the band. ● METRO

Biel getting close with Butler?

PEOPLE While recovering from her breakup with Justin Timberlake, Jessica Biel has reportedly found a fast friend in co-star Gerard Butler while the two film Playing the Field in Shreveport, La., according to Us Weekly.

In fact, during a crew member's birthday party, Butler reportedly appeared to want to be more than friends.

"When Gerry got there, he made a beeline for Jessica. He was really flirting with her."

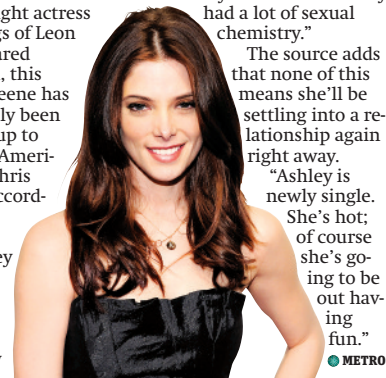

The pair have reportedly gone out together a few more times since then, though friends of Biel say she doesn't want to be anything more than friends with Butler. ● METRO

Ashley Green getting over Joe Jonas

PEOPLE Ashley Green appears to be making the most of the single life after splitting with Joe Jonas.

While last week rumors circulated about the Twilight actress and Kings of Leon bassist Jared Followill, this week Greene has reportedly been cosying up to Captain America star Chris Evans, according to E! Online.

"Ashley was all over (Chris), and he certainly didn't mind," a source says of their meeting at L.A. nightclub Trousdale earlier this week. "They were dancing together very closely. It looked like they had a lot of sexual chemistry."

The source adds that none of this means she'll be settling into a relationship again right away.

"Ashley is newly single. She's hot; of course she's going to be out having fun." ● METRO

- When eating out, ask for nutrition information to help you and your kids make healthy choices.
- For lunch or dinner, suggest pizza on whole grain crust with lots of vegetables.
- Order dressing or sauce on the side. This way, you can control how much is added.
- Beware of cooking methods such as frying. Opt for grilled, baked, poached or steamed dishes.

► This tart sports a coconut crust that is both chewy and crispy, a pudding-like vanilla-almond filling and fresh fruit.

Martha makes it easy as pie — literally

► The cooking guru returns with her new book, Martha Stewart's Pies & Tarts ► Offers more than 150 recipes

150 Recipes for Old-Fashioned and Modern Favorites

Whoever coined the phrase "easy as pie" clearly didn't bake much. Enter Martha Stewart ... again.

Stewart's latest cookbook — simply named Pies & Tarts — offers more than 150 recipes whose clear instructions, gorgeous photos and brevity take the intimidation out of pastry.

Organized by category from "classic" (think apple) to "free-form" (no pie plate handy?) to "artful" (double lattice crusts, shingled leaves), the book lets users pick pies according to their skill and occasion.

From savoury tarts to mile-high meringues, the range of pastries offered makes the book useful all year round. Mini chicken potpies with herbed crust make a hearty winter meal, while vegetable tartlets filled with zucchini and tomatoes are an elegant summer lunch.

Everyday desserts, such as a fruit tart with a cookie-like crust, can be made at any time of the year with whatever's in the market, and free-form galettes — in which dough is simply rolled and folded over a mound of fresh fruit — are easy enough for a busy Tuesday night.

Even this Coconut and Berry Tart, which is snuggled into a macaroon-like crust of coconut and egg white, is simple and makes a great centerpiece for any dinner table.

True to the formula of Stewart's books, an instructional chapter offers the 1-2-3 of crust making and excellent tips about freezing ingredients so you're ready when guests pop by. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Coconut and Berry Tart

Preparation:

1 Heat oven to 180 C (350 F). To prepare crust, in a bowl combine coconut, sugar, 2 egg whites, vanilla and salt. Press mix into bottom and up sides of a 23-cm (9-inch) round fluted tart pan with removable bottom.

2 To make the filling, scrape the seeds from the vanilla bean into a saucepan, then add pod. Set over medium-high heat, then stir in soy milk and 30 ml (2 tbsp) of sugar. Bring to a boil.

3 In a small bowl, whisk together 2 egg yolks, arrowroot and remaining 30 ml (2 tbsp) sugar. Add hot soy-milk mix in a slow, steady stream, whisking until combined.

4 Return mix to pan, and whisk over medium heat until thickened, about 2 minutes. Discard the vanilla pod.

5 In bowl, use an electric mixer on medium to beat soy-milk mix and almond paste for 5 minutes. Beat in the almond flour and soy cream cheese. With offset spatula, spread the mixture evenly over the crust. Bake for 15 minutes.

6 Cover the edges of the tart with foil. Bake until set, another 15 to 25 minutes. Let the tart cool in the pan on a wire rack. Unmold.

7 In saucepan over medium, heat jam until loose. With offset spatula, spread jam over the tart. Arrange berries on top, and serve.

Ingredients:

Crust

- 500 ml (2 cups) unsweetened shredded coconut
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) sugar
- 2 large eggs, separated
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) vanilla extract
- 1 ml (1/4 tsp) salt

Filling

- 1/2 vanilla bean, halved lengthwise
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) vanilla soy milk
- 60 ml (4 tbsp) sugar, divided
- 10 ml (2 tsp) arrowroot
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) almond paste

- 250 ml (1 cup) almond flour
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) soy cream cheese
- 75 ml (5 tbsp) apricot jam
- 1 l (4 cups) mixed fresh berries such as sliced strawberries, blueberries and raspberries

A cool as a cucumber spring-time drink

PETER ROCKWELL
LIQUIDASSETS@EASTLINK.CA
TWITTER: @THEREALWINEGUY

Though it may not be on the radar for many winemakers, when it comes to the opinions of cocktail aficionados, cucumber is the flavour of 2011.

While in San Francisco earlier this year, I headed to ANZU — a California-Japanese fusion restaurant in the posh Hotel Nikko — to score excellent sushi and get the recipe for its famous Cucumber Sake Martini. Success.

Ingredients

- 1 1/2 oz sake
- 1/2 oz Hendrick's gin
- 1/2 oz lime juice
- 3 cubes diced cucumber
- Splash of simple syrup
- Ice cubes
- 1 cucumber wedge for garnish

Directions

Place cucumber cubes, simple syrup and lime juice into a martini shaker and muddle the ingredients together. Add the ice, sake and gin, and shake, shake, shake. Strain into martini glass and garnish with cucumber wedge.

I use American-made Gekkeikan sake ($9.45 - $11.29) as a base and, as suggested, Hendrick's gin ($42.95 - $44.45) from Scotland, which happens to be made with an infusion of roses and, wait for it, cucumber.

The ingredients create a bright and refreshing tippie with up-front cucumber flavour, a subtle essence of sake and a whisper of gin that's perfect for springtime sipping.

Style struts into town

► Fashion Week gets down to business ► Focus will be on Canada as a fashion-market force

Sumptuous style and fashion-forward looks may be the focus on the runway, but any designer can tell you the work is far from over once the models have left the catwalk.

Some of the country's leading talents are preparing to roll out their meticulously crafted creations at Toronto's LG Fashion Week, hoping to attract attention and get fashionistas to open their wallets in the months to come for items from their fall and winter collections.

So it seems fitting that the Fashion Design Council of Canada, which organizes the semi-annual event, has set the "industry" aspect of style square in their sights. The 24th season beginning Monday at Heritage Court at Exhibition Place has been appropriately dubbed "The Business of Fashion."

FDCC president Robin Kay said buyers from every major Canadian city are confirmed for the event. Fashion week attendees will be able to check out an on-site marketplace environment. The space will give designers an opportunity to hang one or two pieces for close-up viewing, she said.

A mobile aspect of the event introduced last season will be taken one step further with e-commerce. Kay said about 50 garments from 20 to 30 designers will carry a universal hang tag. A portion of the tag will be scannable for smartphones, taking individuals to a page to describe how they can purchase the item and delivery date.

Dozens of shows will roll out over five days delivering the usual slate of fresh faces and style stalwarts.

Luxury retailer Holt Renfrew will open the week with "Can't Live Without Canadian Fashion," offering samples of notable brands and labels including Canada Goose, Lida Baday and Jeremy Laing. Joining them on opening night are Izzy Camilleri and Adrian Mainella presenting the latest from their collaborative label IZMA, which features sustainable wild furs. Brother-and-sister team Jamil and Alia Juma will close out Day 1 with looks from their JUMA line.

The week will feature rising talents such as Amanda Lew Kee, Diepo and Krane joining high-profile hometown staples ► Designers will flash forward with their fall/winter collections during LG Fashion Week, to be held in Toronto starting Monday and running through next Saturday.

"There's more seats and there's more eyes, and this way, we can have our fans that have never been able to come to the show come and still attract industry as well."

SUNNY FONG

such as womenswear from David Dixon, Denis Gagnon and Pink Tartan, affordable apparel from Joe Fresh Style and menswear from sportswear label Bustle.

After several seasons showing his collections off-site, Sunny Fong will bring his VAWK label to the Fashion Week runway. Fong said this will be his first presentation on-site since showing his winning finale collection for the TV design competition series Project Runway Canada.

"There's more seats and there's more eyes, and this way, we can have our fans that have never been able to come to the show come and still attract the industry as well," he said in an interview.

Fong said events like Fashion Week are a form of celebration.

"You have all the press and the eyes and everyone's excited, and we need that energy or those moments of Fashion Weeks to sort of work towards," he said.

Fellini exhibit at Lightbox

An exhibit looking at the grand themes in Federico Fellini's work, obsessions and creative process is headed to Toronto.

Fellini: Spectacular Obsessions will feature more than 400 photographs, drawings, film posters, film clips and other artifacts from the late Oscar-winning director.

The exhibit makes its

North American premiere at TIFF Bell Lightbox this summer.

Organizers say the multi-disciplinary showcase includes Fellini's hand-painted notebook, titled Book of Dreams, and rare footage from Mastrona, an unrealized film about the afterlife.

It will be accompanied by a series of double bills in which director Atom Egoyan, actress Isabella Rossellini and other film stars pair their favourite Fellini movie with another feature that has inspired them.

START YOUR PLEDGE AT EARTH HOUR

Opinion

DIRECTOR GENERAL
WWF INTERNATIONAL,
THE MAIN ORGANIZER
OF EARTH HOUR

Earth Hour is always an exciting event for me. In previous years I've been lucky enough to switch off the lights at the Forbidden City in Beijing and the Eiffel Tower in Paris — just two of the thousands of cities and famous landmarks to go dark for Earth Hour. Saturday night I'll be joining the government and people of Delhi in turning off the lights at India Gate, as part of the world's biggest event to celebrate our amazing planet — and pledge to look after it better.

That's the great thing about Earth Hour. All of us — communities, corporations and governments — can participate as global citizens and send a serious message that we want a more sustainable future for ourselves and for the Earth. But switching the

"Think about what you can change in your daily lives — at home, at work or at play — that will benefit our world. After all, we only have one planet" lights off for 60 minutes is just the beginning. This is our chance to take actions in our everyday lives which together could add up to some pretty big changes.

For the past five years, WWF's Earth Hour has done a lot to raise awareness about why we need to live a more sustainable lifestyle. This year, for the first time, the hundreds of millions of people who join in the world's biggest voluntary participation event can pledge to go "beyond the hour." Already individuals, businesses and governments from all over the world have made pledges to reduce wasteful consumption including recycling rainwater, cycling to work, eating less meat and, of course, switching off lights and appliances when we're not using them.

So this year I'm asking all of you to think about what you can change in your daily lives — at home, at work or at play — that will benefit our world. After all, we only have one planet — and we need to sustain it for future generations.

WAYS TO REDUCE YOUR PLASTIC CONSUMPTION

Plastic has had many advantages to humanity, but it's time to take stock. With landfills and oceans burdened by countless tonnes of plastic debris, reducing our dependence to the material is a matter of seismic importance. But it doesn't have to be a huge chore. Here are some small ways that can greatly reduce our fondness for plastics.

● XIAOLIANG HUANG

WASH THE DISHES WITH OLD, CLEAN CLOTHES!

- 1 Old well-worn jeans, cut up into small squares, can serve as a great alternative to plastic dish scrubbers.

BUY OR DIY A REUSABLE FABRIC BAG FOR GROCERY SHOPPING

- 2 Choose an eco-friendly shopping bag made from 100 per cent recycled cotton.

SELL, RECYCLE AND REUSE PLASTIC PRODUCTS

- 3 If you need to discard items like cell phones or computers, at least recycle them at an electronics recycling center.

BUY LOOSE FRUIT, VEGETABLES AND MEAT OVER ONES PRE-PACKED IN PLASTIC

- 4 Choose your desired amount of food, resulting in a double bonus: less food waste and plastic use.

SAY 'NO' TO PLASTIC BOTTLES

- 5 Invest in an aluminum water bottle and fill it up with your water filter jug. If you need to splash out on bottled water, make sure the bottle gets recycled!

PAPER BAG YOUR LUNCH

- 6 Wax paper or foil is better for wrapping your sandwiches than plastic. At least make sure the lunch container is reusable.

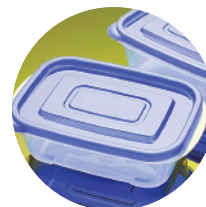

CHOOSE NATURAL PRODUCTS

- 7 Think 'natural', not 'unnatural'. Go for materials like cotton, wood, hemp or paper; they are healthier and biodegradable.

IF YOU NEED TO USE PLASTIC, MAKE SURE IT'S DURABLE

- 8 If plastic is the only option available, use high-quality ones, so that you can reuse them as many times as possible.

DITCH THE CLING FILM

- 9 When you need to store your leftovers, don't cover them with cling film. Use a plate or reusable storage container with a lid instead.

BE AWARE OF PLASTIC NEEDS AT HOME

- 10 You can buy laundry detergent in paper boxes instead of liquid in plastic, or a bar of soap rather than body wash in plastic containers.

Raptors preview

Raptors at Warriors
Fri., 10:30 p.m.
TV: SNET 1
Radio: 590 AM

Toronto (20-51) is 2-11 against Western teams this year. The Raps have dropped 13 of their last 17 games against the Warriors.

Golden State (30-42) is coming off a winless four-game road trip, including a 131-112 loss to Houston.

Leafs gain ground

► Win in Denver puts Toronto three games back of Buffalo for last spot

Nikolai Kulemin had two goals, and Phil Kessel and Tyler Bozak also scored, leading the Toronto Maple Leafs past the Colorado Avalanche 4-3 on Thursday night for their third straight win.

The Maple Leafs boosted their points total to 78, three behind idle Buffalo for the Eastern Conference's final playoff berth. Toronto has seven games remaining.

Colorado saw its modest two-game winning streak snapped on a night when they lost two more players to injury.

Defenceman Ryan Wilson did not return after suffering a second-period knee injury.

The Avalanche also lost Mark Olver, part of Colorado's top line, to a head injury midway through the first period. He was levelled by Mike Komisarek's hard check near the red line and lay sprawled for several moments before crawling off the ice.

Even before Olver managed to reach the Colorado bench, teammate Cameron Gaunce, recalled from Lake Erie of the American Hockey League earlier Thursday, was exchanging blows with Komisarek that resulted in five-minute fighting penalties for both.

The Maple Leafs took a 4-2 lead on a goal by Kessel that he drove past goalie

Peter Budaj, who had replaced starter Brian Elliott at the beginning of the third period. Elliott returned shortly after Kessel's goal at 3:02 of the third.

After officials waved off an apparent goal by Toronto's Mike Brown, ruling the puck had been kicked in, the Avalanche again closed to within a goal when Matt Duchene beat James Reimer on a rebound at 11:55 of the third. But in the final minute, with Elliott pulled in favour of an extra attacker, Reimer turned away a flurry of shots by the Avalanche.

Toronto took a 3-1 lead when Tyler Bozak redirected Luke Schenn's shot into the open side of the net past Elliott at 9:37 of the second period. Colorado got back within a goal three minutes later when their power play delivered a goal by Ryan O'Reilly.

AFTER A LONG WINTER THE ICE STILL COMPELS US

Opinion

SCOTT RUSSELL
FIELD OF PLAY

In parts of the East and West, Canadians have been hammered by snow. Old Man Winter is refusing to loosen his grip.

But with the calendar having flipped into spring, the sweet season for Canadian sport is in full swing. Bone-chilling temperatures notwithstanding, there's much to feast on. Coast to coast to coast and everywhere in between, there's plenty to cheer for at this time of changeover.

The "Boys of Summer" will make their way north soon. March Madness reigns south of the border. These are encouraging signs of deliverance from the depths of long, cold nights, which have dominated the first months of 2011.

Still, we hope the ice will linger ... it runs through our veins.

Our national obsession is entering the critical phase.

The Stanley Cup playoffs are preceded by the annual run to the post-season ... the desperate drives cobbled together by ambitious teams with fanatical backing. So the Canadiens and Canucks are home and cool, but the Leafs and Flames still have fires to put out.

It makes for great hockey drama.

The national pastime of curling has emerged from Canadian arenas to compete on the world stage. Prairie rinks from Regina and Winnipeg have steadfast missions to assure us all that we are still the international front-runner in this enticing game of skill and precision.

Amber Holland and Jeff Stoughton face a subliminal pressure where winning is taken for granted and losing is a dire warning that something so intrinsically Canadian is slipping away. Curling has kept us company through the long winter. Victory at the world championships is a sure sign of spring.

The national passion of figure skating will also witness its culminating event. The world championships will happen, albeit deeper into the season than anticipated.

Canadians are at the forefront. The national men's champion, Patrick Chan, has an inside track on the title. Like Jackson, Orser, Browning, Stojko and Buttle, Chan has designs on the top of the podium. This is not to mention ice dancers Tessa Virtue and Scott Moir, hoping to return from injury to defend their crown.

All of this points to an extension of the cold season to allow our obsession, our pastime and our passion to work their magic.

In our minds we're still stuck in winter. But as Canadian sports fans it's the springtime of our content.

India ends Aussie run

India ended Australia's 12-year World Cup domination Thursday, with Sachin Tendulkar leading a star-studded batting lineup to a five-wicket victory that set up a semifinal classic against archrival Pakistan. The Australians were unbeaten in 34 consecutive World Cup matches until back-to-back defeats to Pakistan and India within six days.

Canada still in the running

CURLING. Canada's medal hopes remain alive at the Capital One World Women's Curling Championship after two key victories to close out the round robin.

But Amber Holland and her Regina rink need to win a playoff game to keep going.

Sweden (9-2) and China (8-3) clinched the top two playoff spots, with Denmark in third.

Canada and Switzerland will meet in a playoff game for fourth on Friday (TSN, 9 a.m. ET). THE CANADIAN PRESS

Cecil still looking for his velocity

► Pitcher says his arm is sore, unsure what's slowing his delivery ► One bad inning cost Jays the game

It was almost an hour after he'd come off the mound, but Blue Jays starter Brett Cecil was still steaming in the locker room.

Cecil's workmanlike effort in a 5-3 loss to the Atlanta Braves Thursday was undone in a five-run fifth, capped by a three-run Dan Uggla homer. One bad pitch makes little difference in a spring training game.

But Cecil said afterward that he has been struggling to find the velocity on his two-seam and four-seam fastballs. Pitches that generally top out in the low 90s are clocking in at 87 and 88 miles per hour this spring.

"Anybody in the league can jump on 87 if it's elevated a little bit," Cecil said disgustedly.

The 24-year-old said he is suffering no pain or tiredness in his arm, but was clearly frustrated at being unable to locate the mechanical cause of the problem.

"I'm just going to try some different things, in terms of working out," Cecil said. He noted that fellow starter Ricky Romero pointed out that he may be gripping the ball too hard, trying to overthrow the heater.

"I don't think anybody's

"If I'm still throwing 84, 85 come all-star break then I'll be a little bit concerned."

BRETT CECIL

concerned. Shouldn't be," Cecil said.

His manager backed him on that.

"I'm not overly concerned," Jays boss John Farrell said. "It's not that he's lost velocity off his fastball. I just don't think his velocity is built up to where it will be and that will come through continuing to get innings."

Farrell said there is no plan to have Cecil's arm checked out by medical staff. With Brandon Morrow shelved short term by forearm soreness, Cecil has temporarily inherited the No. 3 spot in the rotation.

Today's horoscope

♈ Aries March 21-April 20 The obstacles you face may be huge, but you have what it takes to overcome each and every one of them. With courage and confidence there is nothing you cannot do.

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 No doubt you would like nothing better than to cut yourself off from the outside world, but that is not an option at the moment. Make the best possible job of what it is you are asked to do. Be exceptional.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 Some things are important and some things are not. You need to keep that in mind at all times. This can be a productive time for you, but don't waste energy on trivial things.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 If you are not yet getting the rewards and the respect you think you deserve, don't worry. In a matter of days your name will be up in lights. The Sun in Aries makes you wildly ambitious. Be the best.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 23 You may be tempted to go on some sort of trip of discovery today. That's fine, but make sure you take a map or a compass because there is a possibility that you might lose your way.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24-Sept. 22 You will see or hear something today that encourages you to view the world in a new way. This new way of thinking will answer many of the questions you've been asking.

For today's crossword answers and for expanded horoscopes, go to metronews.ca

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 Make it your business to find out what is upsetting someone you love, then make it your business to put it right for him or her. That may sound like a tall order but if anyone can do it, you can.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 If someone with whom you live, work or socialize is upsetting your emotional balance, there's no reason to hang around. Keep it moving.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 At last, you've got a target to aim for. At last, you've got a challenge that is worthy of your talents. You've waited a long time for this opportunity, so don't waste it. Don't think, just act. Your higher self will guide you.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 Stay calm, keep setbacks in perspective and know how to laugh at yourself. If you can do those three simple things then you can do anything. Your world is what you make of it, so make it a masterpiece.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 Why are you still asking other people for their opinions? You already know what path you should be taking, so start walking. It's easy: Just put one foot in front of the other.

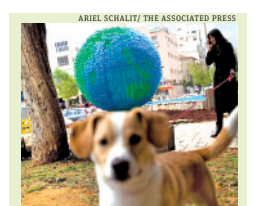

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20 Think and act positive at all times and in all situations. There may be all sorts of negative things going on in the world but they don't have to affect you. SALLY BROMPTON
